CAMPAIGN PLANS FOR COMMUNITY CHEST PROGRESS

Teams Getting Final Instructions Today and Tomorrow—Form Letter
Explaining Drive Sent Out
Today

MEETING ALL PARTICIPANTS
AT SCHOOL THURSDAY NIGHT

CHANGES IN CAPTAINS

Changes have been made in the captains of three of the district teams for the Community Chest drive and substitutions have been made as follows:

J. W. Bradner has taken the captaincy of District No. 1 because of the illness of C. E. Cooke; A. P. Liebigh has taken the captaincy of District No. 2 because E. P. Nicholson is out of town; F. P. Seales has taken the captaincy of District No. 4 because J. M. Hogan can not be in town on Friday.

The Community Chest Campaign is progressing well with every indication that the drive Friday will be a great success. Arrangements for the parade Friday morning are being completed and the various teams are holding their meetings today to make final plans for operation. All of the teams, their captains and the Community Chest Committee will meet in the Central school auditorium tomorrow night.

The following letter is being sent out today to the citizens of Middlesboro:

"You are to be called upon Friday, May 25, for a contribution to the Community Chest Fund of $17,000. You have already made up your mind that you will give your hearty support to the plan but we are taking the liberty to outline a few points which you will doubtless wish to know about:

"This is the ONE and ONLY drive during 1923 for the local charities of Middlesboro, and it is the only campaign for funds for any organization which will receive the local help and endorsement of the people as a whole. When you give to this, you have given ALL for this year. Any contribution for any outside private charity which may seek help from time to time will be left to you as an individual.

"In previous campaigns the majority of the funds raised has been among the business men of Cumberland Avenue, Nineteenth Street, and the wholesale sections. It is manifestly unfair that this be done, and the $17,000 to be raised in this campaign must come from everybody in the city, regardless of the salary he receives, or the business he is in. This will equalize the burden.

"The Community Chest Campaign Committee has carefully gone over the prospective list of givers in the city and an amount has been assigned for each citizen which is considered a fair pro rata for him. The amounts designated are very conservative, but unless everybody responds liberally in the donations, it will be impossible to secure the full sum of $17,000. It is especially important that you take note of this.

"Your subscription to the fund may be paid in ten monthly installments, or in any other manner which you may choose. This plan is adopted in order that the smaller givers may be given an easy plan of contributing what they will naturally wish to do. Checks are made payable to the Community Chest Fund.

"A complete list of the givers will be compiled and published at the end of the campaign and furnished to each donor. If any person does not wish his name published, he will accordingly request that his name be listed as 'Anonymous' or as 'A Friend.'

"We wish it clearly understood that in making the budget as has been announced, the beneficiaries of the fund were discussed from every angle and the amounts fixed received the unanimous consent of every delegate present representing the various organizations assisting in the campaign.

"This is Middlesboro's big, constructive effort to finance properly the charities and philanthropies of our city, and we are relying upon you to help in every way that you can."

BRYAN LOSES IN MONKEY FIGHT

Presbyterians Turn Down Resolution to Bar Evolution Teachings From Schools

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—William Jennings Bryan was defeated and evolutionists scored a victory yesterday when the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America defeated the commoner's resolution to bar schools permitting the teaching of the evolutionary hypothesis from use of church funds.

The assembly adopted a resolution offered by John Willis Baer of Pasadena, which in mild terms directed synods and presbyteries to "withhold their official approval" from education at institutions "where any teaching or instruction is given which seeks to establish a materialistic evolutionary philosophy of life or which disregards or attempts to discredit the Christian faith."

The fundamentalists under Mr. Bryan's leadership went down fighting in the most bitterly waged struggle the general assembly has seen, according to church historians, since Charles A. Briggs, of Union Theological Seminary, was unseated more than 30 years ago because of his Old Testament criticisms.

A rising vote was taken on the question of substituting Mr. Baer's resolution for Mr. Bryan's and the evolutionists apparently were in the majority by more than two to one. On the question of final adoption only one dissenting voice was heard.

In its final form the resolution reads:

"Resolved that synods and presbyteries within whose bounds Presbyterian supported academies, colleges and training schools are located are hereby instructed to exercise careful oversight over the instruction given in such institutions and that synods and presbyteries withhold their official approval from such academies, colleges and training schools where any teaching or instruction is given which seeks to establish a materialistic evolutionary philosophy of life or which disregards or attempts to discredit the Christian faith."

The defeated Bryan resolution said: "Resolved, that no part of the educational fund of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America shall be paid to any school, college, university or theological seminary of any other evolutionary hypothesis that links men in blood relationship with any other form of life."

The commoner spoke for nearly an hour ridiculing the Darwinian theory.

The convention at Winchester closed Saturday. Mrs. Benjamin W. Bayless of Louisville was elected president of the Federation by a large majority. Her opponents were Mrs. James C. Layne of Fort Thomas and Mrs. Stanley F. Reed of Maysville. Mrs. Keene Arnold of Versailles was elected first vice-president and Mrs. L. B. Cockrell of Winchester was chosen third vice-president.

Reasons Why You Should Support The Community Chest Campaign*Reason No. 6

"The Greatest Mother in the World" has not been forgotten in the budget of the Community Chest. The esteem in which the Red Cross organization, national as well as local, is held is shown by the fact that the largest single item in the budget is for the Red Cross, $3800.

All eulogies are futile in attempting to appraise what the Red Cross has meant to the world, in peace times as well as war times. It is enough to know that our American Red Cross is the one factor which the whole world has come to look to for help in times of distress, help that is given as long as any resources are available.

The local Red Cross work under the able direction of Miss Wilhelmine Marx, nurse, has been very successful, so much so that Dr. Jethra Hancock, state health officer, has held it up as the model for this section. Miss Marx has done her big work in the schools, examining every child each year, vaccinating those who had not been before, operating an emergency clinic, and giving daily instruction in health work, through exercises, songs, stories and poster-making. In addition, she has acted as public health nurse and there is never a time when she does not have her hands full with local patients.

The proposed $3800 will enable Miss Marx to carry her work on, enlarging it and developing it where she sees fit. In addition, it will allow for the establishment of a free dental clinic and the examination and treatment of all children for teeth trouble. The work will be done by local dentists.

Budget for Community Chest, $17,000*PRAISES LOCAL LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

Examiners Here Checking Up This Week—Say Business Best Any Previous Year

The two local building loan associations have made rapid progress and are in excellent condition, according to E. L. Ogden, examiner of the state banking department, who finished the work of checking up the two local organizations today. More loans for buildings have been made this spring than at any other similar period since the loan associations began business, he stated.

There are 121 such organizations in the state, the J. L. Manning and the F. Moonman companies conducting the local loan associations. Mr. Ogden and his assistant, Mrs. Ogden, examine the records of each once annually. The growth of this section, as reflected by the loan business is greater than any other, he said.

The aggregate annual business of the associations amounts to about fifty million dollars. The loan associations have existed for many years but it was not until 1918 that they were included in the state department of banking. The organizations which allow only a nominal profit for the promoters render a real public service by encouraging the erection of new buildings.

Most of the associations have more calls for loans than they can promptly meet, this being the case with the local organizations.

Mr. Ogden finished the work on the books of the F. Moonman association yesterday and today the books of the J. L. Manning company were examined. Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ogden went to the Pinnacle on a sight-seeing trip. They expected to return to their home at Frankfort soon.

COLVIN EXPANDS
MAJOR PLANKS OF PLATFORM

Stresses Non-partisan Road Commission, Coal Land Taxation, Opposition to "System" and Race Track Gambling

VEILED CHALLENGES TO DAWSON ISSUES SEEN

By Associated Press.

MARION, Ky., May 23.—Retracing his steps over some of the ground covered in his opening speech at Ashland, George Colvin, state superintendent of public instruction, and candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, ventured further in an address here this afternoon and directed his remarks with especial stress to four issues—a non-partisan road commission, taxation of coal lands; the "system" and race track gambling—which are conceded to be outstanding in the approaching gubernatorial contest.

While the speaker did not refer by name to his opponent, former Attorney General Charles I. Dawson, also an aspirant for the nomination, political observers professed to see in portions of Mr. Colvin's address a challenge to some of the planks in the platform offered by the former attorney general in his opening speech at Pikeville.

"I am strongly in favor of a road commission consisting of four men, two for each of the dominant political parties, selected solely on the basis of character, whose chief function it would be to guarantee the honest expenditure of the money appropriated for building roads," was his pronouncement on that issue.

He advised the owners of mineral properties in Kentucky to accept an honest, fair, equitable assessment of their property "instead of relying upon lobbying and instead of seeking control of tax commissions. In the long run," he declared, "it is better business."

Another striking statement was a declaration in favor of assessing property once every four years. "Annual assessments," he said, "are simply annual invitations to play politics. I believe in the interest of business development that assessments should not be made oftener than every four years. Whatever standard of assessment we may agree upon ought to be fixed and definite and uniform. The rate of taxation can be raised or lowered to meet emergencies."

Mr. Colvin devoted a portion of his address to what he termed the "system," which he declared "every intelligent man in Kentucky knows exists, seeking to control political parties," to "corrupt legislation and debauch public service." It knows no politics, he said, elects speakers of the House, names members of legislative committees, determines what bills shall be reported and passed and what bills killed.

"The race track gambling interests constitute its head and front," he asserted, "and its chief interest is and has been the group representing coal interests."

On the subject of the movement to repeal the pari-mutuel law permitting gambling at race tracks, Mr. Colvin said that if the law is contrary to good morals and good government, it was the duty of the Governor not only to approve a measure repealing the law but to go a step further and demand it.

Say Operators Tried to Make Them Sign Contract Not to Join Unions

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Miners in the non-union fields of Southeastern Kentucky have sent the Federal coal commission a petition asking the commission to help them "be free of American wage workers," according to copies of petitions given out by the United Mine Workers organization. Petition signers are said to be mine employees in the vicinity of Hazard. They declared they were "coerced through operators to sign a contract that we would not join the union." Failing to do so the petition said miners were forced out of their jobs and then forced out of the company's houses. "We humbly pray you to help us restore democracy for all American producers in the mountain counties of Kentucky," the document concluded.

The band will appear for the first time in public in the Community Chest street parade Friday morning. Several meetings of the musicians have been held and the band is now efficiently organized.

LEXINGTON, May 23.—No comment was forthcoming today from state prohibition headquarters here today on the report that there was excessive consumption of liquor at Churchill Downs, Louisville, on Derby Day except the statement of assistant director Bethune that "there is usually some drinking when a derby crowd gathers and there might have been more this year than usual because several distilleries have been robbed."

Chicago Paper Says Chinamen Formerly Brought Across in Sacks—If Revenue Officer Appeared, Dumped in River

WHISKY SMUGGLING NOW
PAYS BETTER PROFITS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Daily News today says smugglers are not only violating the prohibition law now but have done so for years bringing liquor from Canada across the Detroit river to Ecorse, Mich. Formerly they smuggled in Chinamen at $300 to $1000 a head but liquor now pays better profits at two to five dollars a case. One smuggler made $18,000 in twenty-four hours merely by ferrying it across. A boy of fifteen goes to school on dull days but when business is brisk actually engages in the traffic. The News asserts that formerly when Chinamen were smuggled in they were put in a sack and dumped in the bottom of the boat. If revenue men appeared the Chinamen were dumped in the river. This is proven by the fact of many bodies of Chinese being found in the stream.

FISH HATCHERY MAY BE PUT IN BELOW FERN LAKE HERE

Prospects for a fish hatchery in Yellow Creek below Fern Lake will probably be realized soon, made possible by the work of the Tannery in building a filtration lake for refuse from that plant. The Fish and Game Commission, of which Ray Moss of Pineville is a member, had promised a fish hatchery if impurities could be kept out of the creek. This commission had held that the Tannery deposits in the creek made the water impure.

German workmen may demand to be paid in gold because the price of necessities of life keeps pace with the exchange rate.

A THOUGHT
Joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance.—Luke 15:7.

God hath promised pardon to him that repenteth, but he hath not promised repentance to him that sinneth.—St. Auselm.

WAR ON THE HOUSE-FLY

While other cities are waging war against the deadly house-fly, residents of Middleboro would do well to begin now to adopt measures to prevent the spread of the pest. This is often done by inaugurating campaigns and offering prizes for the largest number of flies killed but the most thorough means of eliminating the dread carrier of disease are to destroy breeding places and properly screen all residences and business houses.

It is important that safety measures be adopted now for the rapid multiplication of the insect is almost proverbial. They are beginning to appear now in small numbers but the continuance of warm weather will bring them in swarms.

If it were possible to destroy all breeding places the fly would soon become extinct. This is not being entirely practicable. However, owners of small houses, if the tenants do not, should screen the doors and windows. The larger houses are provided with these as are also the better class of business establishments where food is sold.

The nature of the house-fly menace is well known. Emanating from filth and carrion, it carries uncleanness and disease and leaves in its wake hundreds of victims annually.

While we are adopting other measures for the welfare of Middleboro we should each wage a private campaign against the great enemy of mankind.

HERE COMES HELP

Don't "kid" the youngsters who, graduating this year from high school or college, start out into the world with sure confidence that they are going to take charge of things and save the situation on short notice.

All of us have to go through that period of youthful enthusiasm. And it's a good thing. Looking back, the older generation realize that their exuberant start gave them momentum without which they might have weakened and fallen by the wayside.

Go ahead, you graduates! You're the hope of the world. And the enthusiastic, confident newcomer in the battle of life can take wallows that would make an old timer go down for the count.

MAYBE, after all, the 1923 graduates are right in their conviction that they are going to save the world. The world certainly can stand a lot of saving.

And the re-enforcements pouring from the schools this year are badly needed. The "regulars" are in need to their necks and wavering.

Looking the world over, most of us realize that the present generation has made pretty much of a failure of things. We've almost destroyed a civilization built up painfully and laboriously through thousands of years. The rising generation will not have to do much of a job to beat our pitiful record. All set, youngsters! Bets on you! Over the top!

Most of you graduates have a very definite idea of what you want to accomplish in life. Try to keep your

SPOILING THE ACT

Ideals strong, your courage high, your hearts young.

You'll have temporary setbacks—many of them. They are sent to develop your character and brain, much like muscles in a gymnasium. How to the line. Keep headed for your goal. Don't let any circumstances or any person discourage you from your original purpose.

Above all, ignore the critics. All of them are failures of one degree or another. That's what made them into failures—criticism, the cruelled philosophy of a life that really is well worth living if we are worthy of living.

Guard your high motives. The world never has enough of ideals. At the end of the battle you will know that ideals are fed to humanity from only two sources—very old age, just finishing the fight—and youth, the newcomer, the re-enforcements for the weakening line of progress.

Questions

ONE—When a pitcher is announced what must he do?

TWO—What happens when the umpire is hit by a batted ball on which no play has been made?

THREE—If the umpire is hit by a thrown ball what is the proper ruling?

FOUR—If there is a runner on first and the batter hits a home run, and the runner on first fails to touch third base on his way to the plate, does that affect the status of the batsman?

FIVE—Has the pitcher a right to take a position off the rubber and feint a delivery of the ball to the batsman?

Answers

ONE—When a pitcher is announced in the lineup he must pitch until at least one batsman is retired or reaches first.

TWO—If the umpire is hit by a fairly batted ball on which no play is made, the batsman is entitled to first base, but no runners can advance unless forced to make room for the batsman.

THREE—If the umpire is hit by a thrown ball the ball is considered in play.

FOUR—The failure of a preceding runner to touch a base, and who is declared out for so doing, in no way affects the status of a succeeding runner unless there the two out.

FIVE—The pitcher positively has no right to be off the rubber and feint a delivery of the ball to the batsman. Such an act is a balk.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRECOTT TO HER FRIEND, BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

MY DEAR BEE:

Don't you ever get married until you have a little income of your own. Of course I presume that it comes harder for me than for most girls to be dependent, for dad was so lovely that I never had to ask him for anything.

I had a generous allowance and, besides that, a credit account at all the stores. I think that child sister of mine is right when she said I should never have married a poor man, although how she came to have the prescience of this I do not know.

Naturally when I went to furnish my house I spent every cent that mother had given me for all the beautiful things I thought I needed. It never entered my mind that more money would not be forthcoming from Jack for my personal expenses.

Bee, I have been married for a long time as you know and Jack has never given me a cent. He seems to think if he pays the grocery bills and bills from other stores where we have credit, that I do not need money.

I expect I ought to ask him for a personal allowance, but somehow I cannot bring myself to do it. Of course, never having been married before, I expect Jack just does not realize that I need a little money for my own personal expenses.

Yesterday I invited some girl friends to a luncheon at the downtown hotel where we lived until the apartment was ready and where of course, my credit was good. I would have liked to have taken them to a lovely new place, but I had no money. In fact, I had no money to fee the waiter.

I got even with Jack however, for I put a whopping big fee on the bill and told the waiter to get it at the desk. I saw one of the women who had been married longer than I look rather significantly at one of the other women and I was sure they both understood.

It is only a little thing, Bee, but it is really spoiling all Jack's goodness.

He is just lovely about such a lot of things that I know I should not let this little thing worry me so. But you must know, Bee it is the little things that dominates life.

It is true that it is the big things that draw us up to heaven or crush us down to hell, but the little things live beside us on this earth—and sleep with us—laugh and grumble with us—irritate and appease us.

We love little things. We hate little things. We fear little things from the day we are born until the day we die.

Have you heard from Sally? I am quite ashamed to find fault, but I suppose Sally is perfectly happy in her perfectly modern married life.

LESLIE.

Of all the words in the dictionary, Of every species and every sort, The most important of all is very Sure and simple and brief and short:

A word compressing our high ambitions, The things we seek and the reasons why, The master word under all conditions, "The Perpendicular Pronoun, I."

Some of us use the word but seldom, Some of us use it night and day, But common people or those of swell-dom Are slaves of the word in the self-same way:

And whether we're selfish or self-de-nying, Deep in our souls we know just why, For each in his way is satisfying "The Perpendicular Pronoun, I."

"I" is the word—but you can restrain it From making an egotist out of you; "I" is the word, but your mind can train it To make you do as you ought to do; Your will can soften its harsh demand.

AFTER THE RAIN

After the rain a softly puring breeze blows lightly through the tracery of the trees, Down from the limbs there comes a gentle shower Of dewy drops upon each budding flower. The wind drops up into the heavens high, Scattering the gathered clouds about the sky. And thus once more the light of day is given. For soon a radiant sun shines down from heaven.

Before the rain the flowers had hung their heads In abject misery and the pretty beds Had lost their lovely color and perfume. Ye now they raise them up to burst in bloom. The dusty roads lie clean and 'mongst the green The birds their wretched feathers arching preen. The earth itself is fresh anew and there Is sound of joyous music in the air.

Ewing Notes

NIECE OF LOCAL MEN HAS RECORD SCHOOL ATTENDANCE
Ewing, Va., May 23—Miss Flora Rowlett, who was graduated from L. C. I. Monday night, holds a record of which she may be justly proud. The close of this session marks the close of seven consecutive school years of which she has not missed a day. All of these, as well as her other school days, have been spent at the local school. In addition to her attendance record, she made good grades, she is popular with her schoolmates and she is Class Jester of the Class of 1923.

Miss Rowlett is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rowlett of Ewing and is a niece of Frank, Charles and Houston Ball of Middlesboro.

MRS. GEO. MARCUM OF EWING DIES THERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Ewing, May 23—Mrs. George Marcum, 75, died at her home here Friday at midnight, following a stroke of paralysis. She is survived by her husband and six children: Mrs. James Combs, Mrs. Cass Stanley, Bob Ceto, took place at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in the Rose Hill Church cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. W. Stewart.

Mrs. W. W. Bales and children of Rose Hill visited relatives here Friday. Quite a large number of out-of-town guests have been attending the L. C. I. Commencement exercises. These exercises ended Monday night.

Miss Grace Walker, who has been in school here, was called to her home in Hoop, Tenn., on account of the illness of her brother.

Mrs. D. E. Police has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Hattie Fulkerson.

W. F. Rowlett spent the week-end with his family here.

Miss Annie Mae Harris, who has been ill, is improving.

A number of people from Rose Hill, Ewing and Ewing enjoyed a trip to Sand Cave Monday.

Niece Frazier, a former student of L. C. I. who has been to Radford for treatment, has been visiting here a few days.

ORANGE RHUBARB MARMALADE

Remove the skin from eight oranges and boil it in a small amount of water until tender. Then scrape out all the white part and cut the yellow into very small pieces.

To the pulp of the oranges add five pounds of rhubarb which has been cut into inch pieces. Boil one-half hour. Add four pounds of sugar and boil slowly for two hours. Add the orange peel and turn the marmalade into glasses.

This is a very good marmalade and offers another way of using rhubarb while it is young and tender.

Walker, Louisville, Chief of Staff of the 64 Cavalry Division, and Major Allen W. Gullion, New York, a former Kentuckian and commander of the old "First Kentucky."

The visiting officers, who have been asked to attend, in uniform, will be guests at a military ball on the evening of May 29 which will be one of the outstanding social events of the season in Lexington.

A BANQUET THAT WAS ALMOST A TRAGEDY

"Three years ago at a banquet I was stricken with acute indigestion. Two doctors worked over me for an hour before I came to. I had had severe colic attacks before, but nothing like that. No doctors or medicine gave me permanent help until a friend, who was at the banquet, advised me to take a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I did with wonderful results." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Lee Drug Co., and druggists everywhere.

HORSE AND MULE NOT DISAPPEARING IS CLAIM

By Associated Press
LEXINGTON, Ky., May 21.—(C.)—A survey of the horse and mule industry in this country is not yet in the hands of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and a well known authority on horses.

It is true that automobiles have taken the place of driving horses and mules in the work of the city but in the country the horse and mule is still the main source of power. The number of horses and mules in the United States in 1920 was 14,000,000. The only decrease noted in the census is from 1910 to 1920 when the number of horses and mules was 15,000,000.

Consolidated figures show that the number of horses and mules in the United States in 1920 was 14,000,000. The only decrease noted in the census is from 1910 to 1920 when the number of horses and mules was 15,000,000.

"Better See if the Motor Needs Oil"

Get in the habit of saying this to your dealer whenever you stop for gasoline, water or air. Remember, that the only way you can tell whether or not your motor needs oil is; first, by the simple way of looking at the gauge, and second, by the expensive way of finding out too late that cylinders have been scored and bearings burned thru your forgetting to keep up the supply of oil.

Sufficient quantity, the right quality, the proper weight or grade of oil, and the replacing of oil after it has been worn out by six or seven hundred miles of running—these are the important things to watch; and, given proper attention, you can avoid the bother and expense of most motor troubles.

Be safe—be sure—and be satisfied by putting nothing in your crank case but

"BLUE TIGER" IN CHINA! NO, IT WASN'T BLIND!

Washington, May 23—There are lots of things in China stranger than bandits, according to A. de C. Sowerby, biologist of the Smithsonian Institution, who recently conducted a scientific exploration into southeastern China.

For instance—a blue tiger! This unique animal is listed from the category of the imaginary, in which the "blue moon" still remains, by being given recognition in a formal report of the Smithsonian.

Writing from the interior of Fukien province, 200 miles from the coast up a tributary of the Min River, Sowerby says:

"I met Caldwell, who saw the 'Blue Tiger,' and he tells me it was of such a color that he thought it was a Chinaman in his blue coat in the brush. But he had a good view of the animal to be perfectly certain of what it was. The only reason he did not shoot it was that it was just above two boys who were working in a field, and had he shot it it must have fallen on top of them. Indeed it was actually stalking them when he saw it."

Although Smithsonian scientists apparently give credence to the existence of the "Blue Tiger," there are those who treat it more lightly.

For instance, when mention was made of it to Roy Haynes, prohibition commissioner, his first question was: "Was it blind?" Working from identical sets of figures, the Bureau of the Budget and the Department of Treasury differ somewhat in their fiscal year, June 30.

The Budget Bureau announces that the budget "will balance with a surplus of at least $60,000,000."

The Treasury announces: "Best estimates indicate a surplus of over $12,000,000."

Why this wide difference? Well, the Budget Bureau, charged with keeping down expenditures, seeks to be safely conservative.

The Treasury Department, with a refunding program still to be completed, wishes to make the best showing possible.

That both agree, however, that the end of the year will show a surplus will be cheering news to the taxpayers. The apparent discrepancy is unofficially explained by a statement that the Budget Bureau allowed for the payment of certain obligations before July 1, which the Treasury expects will be deferred until after that date.

PRESIDENT HARDING may get a new slant on some of his subjects if he takes time to visit the Indians of Alaska's northwest coast, according to Dr. T. T. Waterman of the Bureau of American Ethnology.

It is among these Indians that the totemic art, expressed through weirdly graven totem poles has reached its greatest perfection.

"A tremendous mass of ideas and usages has grown up, involving kinship, rules of marriage, property, religious ceremonies about these animal crests," said Waterman.

"To the Indian of this region, the most important thing in life is his animal crest of totem." All his ideas and ambitions center about this hereditary animal progenitor and protector, the likeness of which he carries on all his utensils, paints on his house front, tattoos on his arms and chest, paints on his face and carves on his memorial column.

"Curiously, to us, these people reckon kinship through the mother only. A man sets up a memorial column, not for his father, but for his mother's relatives—particularly her brother. A son has, according to their ideas no connection with his father. A boy or young man looks to his maternal uncles for counsel and guidance to them he owes veneration and respect and from them only he inherits property."

SAME IN NAME, BUT THEY'RE WAITING TO BE INTRODUCED

CLEVELAND, May 22.—When the Masonic grannies of the country assemble here for their thirty-fourth annual national convention, June 11, 12 and 13, John H. Cox will have the opportunity of meeting John H. Cox.

John H. Cox has never met John H. Cox, but he hopes to make his acquaintance. So does John H. Cox. The tangle will unravel itself, however, when John H. Cox explains he's monarch of Al Sirat Grotto, Cleveland, while John H. Cox—the other one—introduces himself as monarch of Murga Grotto, Galesburg, Ill.

Cleveland is preparing to entertain 50,000 members of the order during the convention. All hotel rooms have been reserved, but so large will be the number of visitors these three days that delegations which have chartered lake steamers to bring them here will use these as their hotels. Others, coming on special trains, will "room" in their Pullmans.

TWO DOLLAR BILL TO BE REFUTED BY GOVERNMENT

Nobody will accuse the Government, especially the Treasury Department, of being superstitious or "following a hunch," so that when it is announced that the $2 bill is to be retired from circulation there must be some good reason, good, bad or indifferent. The department says it is to standardize currency designs and withdraw a bill that is too susceptible to work by forgers. The fact is, however, that the $2 bill is a nuisance and unpopular and the treasury probably appreciates it. That it is considered an unlucky bill and is handled with reluctance everybody knows; and this is reason quite sufficient to retire it. As a practical matter it is too frequently mistaken for a $1 bill and in design too nearly resembles the $5 note to reconcile the public to its circulation. Public convenience is the first consideration and this mongrel bill goes to join the 2-cent piece, the 3-cent nickel, the half-dime in silver, the gold dollar and the quarter-eagle. It will be a good riddance.

Taking the Public into Our Confidence—

Take the Public into your confidence and the Public will have confidence in you—that mutual confidence upon which all successful business is founded and all great things accomplished.

Executives of American railroads are coming into full realization of this fact and beginning to put the theory into practice.

These Railroad Executives are taking the public into their confidence by presenting plainly and candidly the facts about railroad operation and about many of the complex conditions, heretofore unknown to the public, under which this operation must be carried on.

The Public is responding to this wise action, by a fairer-minded consideration for the railroads; a more generous attitude toward them and a fuller co-operation with them—which is resulting in increasing business for the railroads and better service to the Public.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad is endeavoring to establish this mutual, co-operative confidence between its patrons and itself by a series of informative statements in the newspapers and other media, with very gratifying results; and is highly appreciative of the substantial response on the part of the Public.

The huge garage room was crowded last night. Admiring visitors carefully inspected the assortment of beautiful Studebakers on display. A number of dealers from Corbin and other towns were there. Mechanos' act which consisted of mechanical doll acts, turning to stone, growing tall and cataleptic simulations was well appreciated and applauded.

During singing and dancing she has been started with a number of large road shows and has produced several plays. She came to Middlesboro to spend her twenty-third birthday with her brother who will buy her birthday present at Gibson Bros. Friday.
